VOL. XXII SPECIAL DIRECTORY NUMBER 1941

The Catholic Hospital and School of Nursing at the End of 1940

Alphonse M. Schwitalla, S.J. and M. R. Kneifl

Foreword

THE Catholic Hospital Association of the United States and Canada herewith presents for the twelfth consecutive year its survey of the Catholic hospital field in the United States and in Canada as an introduction to its Annual Directory. While the field as a whole has not changed appreciably during this last year, there are still a number of very significant and, to some extent, surprising changes.

The reason for the relative stability of conditions is probably due to the uncertainties of the national and international situation. There is considerable evidence to show that the Sisters and Brothers of our Catholic hospitals are afraid to extend their activities into new regions. While there have been ten new Catholic hospitals organized in the course of the last year, the number of new institutions would have been much greater due to the large demands for hospitalization, had the economic uncertainty been less pronounced.

In many areas, particularly in some sections of the Eastern Seaboard and in the Eastern sections of the Middle West, the desire of the Sisters for enlargement of their work has taken the form rather of enlarging of bed capacities through the building of additions than the form of a new foundation. Nevertheless, a few outstanding facts in the present situation deserve particular emphasis. Foremost among these, is the fact that is revealed by the subsequent tabulations that the occupancy of our hospitals has increased appreciably, so that a noteworthy increase in the percentage of hospital occupancy seems a special trait of the last year's work. Related to this increase in occupancy are, of course, increases in hospital receipts and what seems to be true, though our evidence is as yet incomplete, a greater increase in hospital expenditures. There seems to have been less refinancing in the course of this last year than in several of the previous years, so that a stabilization of capital indebtedness has been secured. This, to be sure, may affect policies in subsequent years. For the present, however, the hospitals are concerned rather with the amortization of existing debts than with the making of new debts.

A second statistical fact which stands out in this year's report is the influence which the preparedness program will undoubtedly have on our hospitals. The Catholic hospitals located in or near defense areas are beginning to feel the stimulation of such proximity. Many of them are already rendering a noteworthy service to the military officials in charge of encampments, as well as to the civilian officers of industrial defense activities. In this same connection, a reduction in the hospital personnel due to the call to military service of staff members, particularly the medical staff members, will in all likelihood have a profound bearing upon hospital activities during the coming years.

The nursing problem shows also a tendency of becoming acute; not only is there a reduction in the availability of nurses in some areas of the country, but in those same as well as in other areas, the demands of the nurses for a higher salary for their eight-hour duty is exerting a pronounced influence. If the per-diem stipend of the private-duty nurse is increased, it will, undoubtedly, become more difficult to secure institutional nurses at the presently prevailing rates, and thus again hospital policies, personnel procedures, and techniques in operation will be affected by the effect which the increase in the salary of the private-duty nurse has upon the hospital budget.

Finally, it should be noted that the educational activities of the Catholic hospital are being greatly intensified. This is true not only with reference to interns for whom a constantly improved program of education is being devised, but also with reference to student nurses. In Nursing Education, our Catholic hospitals have shown a most noteworthy development during this last year. There also is considerable increase in the development of the professions auxiliary to medicine, such as, laboratory technology, radiological technology, dietetics, occupational therapy, and especially in medical social service.

In the field of Nursing Education an appreciable increase has taken place in the size of the student body of our Catholic institutions. This increase is distributed practically throughout all parts of the United States, though it is most pronounced in the eastern section. In Canada, however, there has been a slight decrease in the number of students.

All that we have said here by way of general summary must be slightly modified when applied to the Catholic hospitals of Canada. The impact of war conditions is making itself felt on our Catholic institutions of Canada, and even though the changes are not as yet so pronounced as to challenge attention, nevertheless there is an ample number of hints warning us that war conditions may and usually do affect sooner or later all forms of welfare activity.

In this period of anxiety and trial, of uncertainty and vague forebodings, this new review of the Catholic hospital field has only intensified our confidence in Christ, our reliance upon His assistance, our dependence upon His love. Those who have worked so laboriously in the compilation of this volume place it with humble trust at the Feet of that Christ, in whose Sacred Heart everyone working for the purposes and for the cause of the Catholic hospital cannot but find strength and a renewed determination to work for all the benefits to humanity which the Catholic hospital can secure, aided by the Grace of Christ. We beg Him to accept our efforts and to grant all those whose work we have tried here to present in summary form to a world which needs today more than ever the viewpoints and attitudes of religious service for the sick, the needy, the suffering, and the afflicted, the fullest effectiveness in His service for His honor and glory. We beg Him to lead us on secure in our determination that the Charity of Christ and that alone must press us onward.

1. A Year of Peak Activity

IN THE history of the Catholic hospitals of the United States and Canada, the year 1940 is a year of maximum activity. With reference to the total number of patients served by the Catholic hospitals in the two countries, the number of hospital days, the receipts and expenditures of the hospitals, and in all of the other phases of administrative statistics dependent upon these fundamental values, the year 1940 is unquestionably distinguished.

Whether this activity, great as it is, represents an actual peak or whether it represents a secondary peak in a still greater service, or finally whether it represents merely a point on a rising curve, it is entirely too early to forecast. Some indication, however, of the significance of last year's statistics may be derived from the fact that calculating the occupancy of the Catholic hospital in the two countries by the percentage of occupancy in different regions, we reach the surprising general occupancy of the institutions of 66 per cent. One might surmise, therefore, that since the potential occupancy of our hospitals is approximately 35 per cent and is desirably about 20 per cent higher than the present actual occupancy, and since, moreover, the demand for hospital service is undoubtedly increasing, we have not as yet reached a final peak in Catholic hospital activity even if no increase in the physical facilities of these institutions develops.

As for the factors which are making for increased occupancy of the hospital, they are many and diverse. First we must seek an explanation of the increasing demand in the present economic status of the nation. Secondly, there can be no doubt but that paralleling an increasing appreciation of the nation of health, there is also an increased appreciation of hospitalization, as an instrument not only of therapeutic but also of preventive medical care. Thirdly, a number of newly developed factors have undoubtedly influenced occupancy, first among which must be mentioned the influence of the acceptable group hospitalization plans. The extent of the influence of this factor is readily determinable in general terms, and has been estimated to account for from 10 to 20 per cent of the increase in hospitalization in the areas served by these plans. Comparable figures for Canada are not readily accessible. Fourthly the growing consciousness of the need of employees' welfare on the part of the industries has undoubtedly manifested itself to a larger extent during the last year than in previous years, and has resulted in the development of plans more or less acceptable and sound which also have had the effect of increasing the census of our hospitals. Fifthly, with reference to Catholic hospitals, specifically, the evidences of appreciation of the function of the Catholic hospital have been very numerous during the past year, due, no doubt, to the appointment on the part of many of Their Excellencies, the Bishops of various dioceses, of diocesan officials, who either as hospital or charity directors or in some other capacity have been expected to take a close interest in the Catholic hospitals and institutions in their respective dioceses. This has stimulated the choice of the Catholic hospital by the people. The extent of the influence of this factor on Catholic hospital census cannot as yet be easily estimated.

In view of all of the above, the prediction may be hazarded that unless there is a fundamental and radical economic change so significant as to seriously disturb trends which we are here trying to review, the volume of Catholic hospital activity is bound to increase still more during 1941 than it did during 1940. The reasons for the validity of the comparison arise from the fact that many of the factors which are operative in the rise of activity are still accelerating their momentum while scarcely one of them is being retarded by the rapid march of events in which we are living.

2. The Number of Hospitals

At the end of the year 1940, the number of Catholic hospitals in the United States was 689 and in Canada 184. In these totals is not included the number of separately designated divisions, for the most part separate buildings which are conducted under the same superintendent as the parent institution. Of this kind there are 87 additional hospitals in the United States and 35 additional ones in Canada. In the two countries, therefore, there are 901 Catholic hospitals and 122 separately designated hospitals as just defined, or a total of 1023 hospitals.

Catholic hospital activity has other components than the hospital itself. The Catholic Hospital Association in its statistics has organized three groups of allied agencies; the first, institutions which, though themselves not hospitals, still contain a unit large enough to be considered a hospital. As a matter of fact some of these divisions have considerable bed capacities. Of these, the Association recognizes 163 in the United States and 102 in Canada, with 23 additional institutions in the United States Possessions. A second group of allied agencies is made up of those units in welfare and social agencies which offer an institutional service in connection with their activities. Of this category there are 56 in the United States and 11 in Canada. Thirdly, there are various visiting-nurse associations made up entirely of Sisters. Forty-one such agencies are found in the United States and six in Canada. In addition, therefore, to the number of hospitals as stated in the previous paragraph, there are 288 hospitals which are not designated as such; 67 institutional services which must be regarded as hospitals; and 48 visiting-nurse associations.

The total field of Catholic hospital activity in the two countries may, therefore, be briefly described as being composed of 1023 hospitals, 293 hospital divisions of other institutions, 67 institutional services, and 48 visiting-nurse agencies, or a grand total of 1431 hospitals and similar agencies.

Just a word of comment should here be added on the development which these figures represent. Over a period of twenty-five years, the average numerical increase in the number of hospitals has been approximately six per year. This average increase is somewhat exceeded by the increase during the last year. In this connection it should be noted that the increase would undoubtedly have been still larger, were it not for the fact that the stimulation of industries, which has taken place, has not been reflected as yet in the number of Catholic institutions. In other words, the increase in the number of institutions lag considerably behind the industrial stimulation. The trend has rather been toward increasing the size of the existing Catholic hospitals. It may be expected, however, that within the next year or two, again assuming the persistence of present-day trends, an appreciable increase in the number of Catholic hospitals will take place. In Table I, the data on the number of Catholic hospitals and allied agencies are summarized.

3. The Number of Beds

Some intimation of the magnitude of the trend toward increasing the size of the Catholic hospital may be gained from the study of present bed capacities. In the United States, the Catholic hospitals and allied agencies at the end of 1940 had bed capacities of 110,578 and bassinet capacities of 14,305, while in Canada the corresponding totals were 46,972 and 5,199. The total bed capacities, therefore, of the two countries are now 157,540 beds and 19,504 bassinets. Table II summarizes the available information bearing upon this point.

4. Occupancy

In the Catholic hospitals of the United States and those of Canada combined, there was given during the year 1940 a total of 33,458,455 days of hospital care. Of this number, 25,324,795 days' care were given in the hospitals of the United States and 8,133,660 days' care in Canada.

The number of patients receiving hospital care reached a total of 3,038,132 in all of the Catholic hospitals in the two countries, 2,298,617 being the number of patients in the Catholic hospitals of the United States, and 739,515 in the hospitals of Canada. In these statistics, hospitals only are included; that is, the number of days of service given by allied agencies and by hospitals in some way related to parent institutions are not here included.

The average daily census of the Catholic hospitals in the United States totaled in the last year 69,383 and in those of Canada, 22,284, so that on an average day the Catholic hospitals of the United States and Canada were caring for 91,667 patients.

These figures, even if they are left to speak for themselves, are significant enough. They assume an even greater significance when studied in conjunction with a short period trend; that is, in conjunction with the three most recent years of our hospital history. For the United States and Canada together, the average daily census has increased by about 7 per cent. The annual number of hospital days has risen from 23,500,000 in 1938 to 25,500,000 in 1940, an increase of about 8 per cent. The total number of patients has increased by comparing the 1938 with 1940 figures by more than 170,000, or approximately 7 per cent.

The census and occupancy of the Catholic hospital, as is to be expected, differs very considerably in the different regions of the United States and Canada. Unfortunately only general statistics can be presented for Canada, while for the United States it is possible to "break down" the general totals into regional statistics. The daily census of our Catholic hospitals in different sections of the country varies between an average of 81 patients per hospital to a maximum of 131 patients per hospital. For Canada there is only this one figure available; namely, that the daily census is 136.8 patients per day. The largest daily average census per institution occurs in the North and Middle Atlantic States, the value being 131 patients per day. The smallest occurs in the Far Western States where it is 81 patients per day. Since detailed information bearing upon these various points has been accumulated in more or less comparable form since 1937, a comparison between the year 1940 and 1937 was made. The result of such a study reveals a great deal. Thus, for example, the average daily census of the average institution in this four-year period has increased from 110.8 patients in the earlier year to 131.0 patients in the latter year for the North and Middle Atlantic States. Similarly, the average daily census per hospital in the region showing the lowest daily average census, which in 1937 was the Central Northwest area, and in 1940, the Far West area, has increased from 71.1 patients per institution per day to 81.0. With reference to the size of the average daily census per institution, the order of the five statistical regions for the decreasing value of the daily census was in 1937 the North and Middle Atlantic states, the Central West states, the South and South Atlantic states, the Far West states, and lastly, the Central Northwest states. In 1940, the North and Middle Atlantic states have kept their first place. The following in the order of the decreasing value of the daily census are the South and South Atlantic states, the Central West states, the Central Northwest states, and the Far West states.

During 1940, the percentage of occupancy ranged in the five statistical areas from the lowest value of 61.9 per cent in the Far West states to the highest value of 73.2 per cent in the North and Middle Atlantic states. In 1939 the lowest regional percentage of occupancy was 55.7 per cent, and the highest 69.0 per cent. The occupancy, therefore, by regions has increased considerably in all of the statistical areas. Here, too, some regional changes have taken place. The North and Middle Atlantic states have kept their first place with the highest percentage of occupancy throughout the last four years, whereas in 1937, however, the Far West states had a higher relative percentage of occupancy than the Central North West states which hold second place. In the rank order at the present time is the North and Middle Atlantic, the Central Northwest, the Central West, the South and South Atlantic, and the Far West areas.

5. Economic Status of Patients

The classification of patients in accordance with their ability to pay has been exposed, to be sure, to frequent and serious criticism. Nevertheless it has considerable validity and throws valuable light upon the operation of the hospital.

Free Service:

The free service rendered by our Catholic institutions in the United States has approximately maintained its level for the three years though it does show a diminuation of approximately 100,000 hospital days. The percentage of free service as compared with the total number of hospital days shows a more marked reduction, from 19.3 per cent in 1938 to 17.9 per cent in 1940. The number of free patients treated was reduced by approximately 11,000.

Statistics concerning the free service of our Catholic institutions in Canada presents a marked contrast to that of the Catholic hospitals of the United States. The average daily census of free service has risen by approximately 2,000 patients. The number of annual free hospital days has increased by 700,000 in three years, and the number of free patients has increased by about 65,000.

Taking the Catholic hospitals in the two countries together, we find an increase in the average daily census of free patients of about 1600, an increase of the number of free hospital days of about 600,000, and an increase in the annual number of free patients of about 55,000.

The Catholic Hospital Association has always insisted that the free service rendered to indigent patients is a valuable measure of many features of Catholic hospital activity. Any change, therefore, indicative of an increase or a decrease in charity service challenges further study. In the Catholic hospitals of the United States the decrease of the volume of charity service in this three-year period is as yet too small to merit particular attention. Nevertheless in view of actual situations, this decrease is easily intelligible. Not only does the general economic condition of the country play a large role with reference to the hospital's unremunerated service, but there is considerable evidence that a larger number of our Catholic hospitals are participating in funds set aside by public as well as private agencies for the support of hospitalizing indigent patients. In this way the indigent patient whose hospitalization would ordinarily be contributed by the hospital becomes a "pay patient." Hospitalization plans also have affected this factor in Catholic hospital activity.

The situation in Canada undoubtedly merits more penetrating study. What the factors are, which at the present time are increasing not only the total volume of charity service, but also are markedly affecting the percentage of service to free patients, just at this time when conditions in Canada might be thought of as approximating those in the United States is hard to determine. It might be suggested that war conditions are reflected in our figures. But such an explanation still leaves considerable uncertainties in one's mind. At any rate, the situation is pronounced enough to deserve further detailed analysis. By way of a summary, the statistics for the year 1940 show that, during this year, out of an average daily census of 91,667 in the Catholic hospitals of the two countries, 21,643 patients were free or charity patients. Out of a total of 33,458, 455 annual hospital days, 7,889,695 were "free days" (21 per cent), and out of a total of 3,038,132 patients treated during the year in these institutions, 7,018,154 (23 per cent) were free patients.

Part-Pay Service:

In estimating the charity service of the Catholic hospitals, it is significant also to include a study of the part-pay patient. In assembling statistics on this point most Catholic hospitals are reporting the number of patients and patient days which are not completely paid for through income from patients. The other method of computing part-pay hospital days, namely the days paid for at a lower price than the average per-patient-day cost is not in common use.

In the United States, the average daily census of part-pay patients increased by about 2500; the annual number of part-pay hospital days by approximately 1,000,000; and the annual number of part-pay patients by about 60,000. Despite these increases, however, the percentage of part-pay service as part of the total hospital service decreased by about 7/10 of one per cent, when the statistics for 1938 are contrasted with those of 1940.

In Canada, again, the trend is markedly different from that of the United States. The average daily census of the part-pay patients has decreased by about 1000. The number of annual hospital part-pay days has decreased by about 400,000, and the annual number of part-pay patients has decreased by about 35,000.

In the United States, the trend in our Catholic hospitals is toward an increase in the volume of part-pay service; in Canada, the trend shows a marked decrease in the volume of part-pay service. In the two countries together part-pay service in the Catholic hospital shows a pronounced tendency to an increase of such service.

Pay Service:

As might be expected from the foregoing paragraphs, a noteworthy increase in paid hospital service has taken place in the United States during the last three years. The average daily census of paid patients has increased by about 3000, which represents a 10-per-cent increase. The annual number of paid hospital days has increased by about 1,250,000, and the number of paying patients by about 140,000. The percentage of paid patients in the total hospital service has increased by fully 2 per cent, so that at present more than half of the hospital service is fully paid for (51.2 per cent).

Again in Canada, we find a situation which presents a marked contrast to the conditions in the United States, and which is not too easy to explain. First of all, there is an increase in the average number of paid patients. There is also an increase of about 300,000 in the paid-for hospital days, and an increase of approximately 22,000 in the annual number of paying patients. The percentage of paid-for service, however, in the total hospital service has decreased surprisingly.

Taking the Catholic hospitals of the two countries together, we find an increase of about 3000 paying patients in the average daily census, an increase of about 1,500,000 in the paid-for annual hospital days, and an increase of about 100,000 in the annual number of paying patients.

The general trends with reference to remunerated service in the Catholic hospitals of the two countries may, therefore, be briefly summarized as follows: In the United States there is a noteworthy trend toward a reduction in the unremunerated service, but an equally noteworthy trend toward an increase in the number of partly remunerated days, and an even more marked trend toward an increase in the number of fully paid-for days. In Canada the trend is toward an increase in the number of unremunerated and partly paid days, and due to the increased volume of hospital service, there is also an increase in the number of paid-for hospital days. Proportionately, however, the percentage of free service is markedly increasing. The percentage of part-pay days and of fully paid days is decreasing. Table III summarizes the available statistics and shows comparisons of the statistics for 1940 with those of the two previous years.

6. Ambulatory and Dispensary Service

In estimating the effectiveness of the Catholic hospital in its service to the nation, statistics dealing with in-patients afford only a partial answer. To the volume of in-patient service must be added the statistics dealing with various forms of service given to ambulatory and dispensary patients. In assembling the data for the year 1940, efforts have been made to arrive at base-line figures for determining the volume of what might be called non-in-patient service. This clumsy term is used in the absence of any other term which will comprehend all forms of service to the sick who are not actual hospital patients.

In the United States 133 organized out-patient departments have been reported conducted by our Catholic hospitals, 314 emergency services (it being understood that only organized emergency services were reported), and 268 hospitals in which ambulatory patients were reported. In the first of these categories, 536,499 patients were treated during 1940; in the emergency services, 287,285; and in the "ambulatory service," 689,090. In other words in addition to the number of in-patients reported above, 1,512,874 out-patients were treated.

In the Catholic hospitals of Canada, 29 organized out-patient departments have been reported; 32 emergency services; and 56 services for ambulatory patients. These divisions of institutions rendered medical care to 236,010 patients.

In addition, therefore, to the 3,038,132 in-patients there were treated in the Catholic institutions of the two countries, 1,748,884 out-patients, or a grand total of 4,887,016 patients.

It has not been possible thus far to assemble satisfactory data concerning the number of patients in the various allied agencies. Table IV presents the summarized statistics on the number of patients receiving care in the hospitals of the United States and Canada.

1. Hospital Approvals

The procedures for the approval of hospitals by the American College of Surgeons and by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association are necessarily time-consuming and complex. For this reason, changes from year to year in the number of approvals secured by the Catholic hospitals are also necessarily small. A brief statement, however, on the actual situation is justified by the importance of this subject.

For several years past, 70 per cent of the Catholic hospitals of the United States have merited the approval of the American College of Surgeons. This percentage has been maintained practically constant, varying only between 70.4 per cent and 71.4 per cent over a number of years. The remaining 30 per cent that are as yet unapproved by the American College of Surgeons will, of course, find it difficult to secure that approval largely because the size of the hospital is one of the factors which must be considered by the American College of Surgeons. There are approximately 25 per cent of the Catholic hospitals which would be regarded as too small by the American College of Surgeons. This leaves a margin of only 5 per cent of our Catholic institutions which should be able to secure the approval and which have thus far failed to do so.

With reference to the approval of the hospital for internship training by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association, much still remains to be done in the Catholic hospital field. Thus far only 204 of our Catholic hospitals in the United States have merited this distinction. It is estimated that no fewer than 350 of our Catholic hospitals should be able to meet the requirements of the Council without serious difficulty, while an additional 100 could undoubtedly secure this approval with some re-adjustments which would be larger or smaller in different institutions. Upon this point there has been a lag in the Catholic hospitals as a group.

A similar statement should be made concerning the approval of our hospitals for the education of residents. Thus far about one sixth of our institutions have been approved for residencies and fellowships. It would seem that fully one half of our Catholic institutions should be able to develop satisfactory programs which would merit approval. That considerable interest in this matter has been developed in our Catholic institutions is evidenced by the fact that in the last four years no fewer than 46 Catholic hospitals have secured the approval of residencies. In other words, in four years our percentage of approvals has increased from 10 per cent in 1936 to 16 per cent in 1940. This is an encouraging sign and should serve as a stimulus to those institutions which are striving to make themselves more efficient educational factors in the development of the future specialists.

In this connection attention should be called to a situation which easily can be remedied. Due to the shortage of interns, a number of our Catholic hospitals have thought it to be justified to accept as interns the graduates from non-approved schools of medicine. There are serious reasons on account of which the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals withdraws its approval of hospitals for internship training whenever a hospital accepts such interns. Fortunately the number of instances in which this problem has occurred is rapidly decreasing. Attention is here called to this situation in order to encourage all of the Catholic hospitals to give serious attention to the many problems associated with the growing shortage in the number of interns. This is largely a staff problem and the solution of the difficulty will depend upon the zeal, good will, and competency of the medical staff.

In Canada approximately 40 per cent of our Catholic institutions have secured the approval of the American College of Surgeons. The Canadian Medical Association has approved approximately 13 per cent of our Catholic institutions for the training of interns. Thus far little has been done in Canada for the approval of hospitals for resident training. Questions bearing upon this problem for our Canadian institutions are quite different from those affecting the situation in the United States.

2. Religious Status of Patients

A noteworthy change in the in-patient service has taken place during the year 1940 as contrasted with the year 1939 in the number of non-Catholics cared for in our Catholic hospitals. In the United States, the percentage of Catholics has decreased; in Canada it has markedly increased. Whereas in the year 1939 the percentage of non-Catholics cared for in our Catholic hospitals in the United States totaled 57.8 per cent, in 1940 this percentage reached 59.5 per cent. Contrariwise, in Canada the percentage of non-Catholics decreased from 38.8 per cent in 1939 to 23.9 per cent in 1940.

What these percentages mean is revealed by further analysis, first of the average hospital census and secondly of the total number of patients cared for.

In the United States the average number of patients per hospital during the year 1940 was 3336. Of this number, 1985 were non-Catholic patients and 1351 were Catholic patients. In Canada, the average number of patients per hospital cared for during 1940 was 4019 of which number 3058 were Catholic and 961 non-Catholic patients. Contrasting 1939 with 1940 in the United States in the latter year there were 314 more non-Catholic patients per year per institution as an average than in the previous year. In Canada, however, there were in 1940, 77 fewer non-Catholic patients per institution than in 1939.

From another point of view, almost 437,000 more non-Catholic patients than Catholic patients were cared for in our Catholic institutions as contrasted with 350,000 in the previous year. Relatively, therefore, there was an increase in the United States of about 25 per cent in the number of non-Catholic patients.

Regional differences significantly affect religious statistics in the United States. This fact is reflected in the religious statistics for the Catholic hospitals. In 1940 the percentage of Catholics reached 62.6 per cent in the North and Middle Atlantic states, while it reached only 22.9 per cent in the South and South Atlantic states. In the Central West, the percentage of Catholics was 43.2 per cent, in the Central Northwest, 36.1 per cent, and in the Far West, 28.6 per cent In all five of these statistical areas there was a decrease in the percentage of Catholics when the year 1939 was compared with 1940, except in the Catholic hospitals of the Far West. In the latter there was a slight increase of one and one half per cent in the census of Catholic patients, and in the Central Northwest where the percentage of 36.1 was maintained. In the Central West and in the South and South Atlantic states, the loss of Catholic patients was the same, namely 2.1 per cent.

Tables V and VI present a summary of the religious statistics.

3. Changes in Administrative Personnel

For several years the Association has been concerned about problems associated with tenure of the chief administrative officers of our Catholic hospitals. On several occasions it was pointed out that stabilization of policies, administrative planning, and competent administration can be promoted greatly by continuance in office of the high officials of the institution. In Catholic institutions other considerations than merely administrative ones enter into this problem. Nevertheless even with the prescriptions of Canon Law and the special regulations of the various religious orders, satisfactory periods for tenure as well as satisfactory policies with reference to changes can be brought about.

During the year 1940 there were 135 changes in the superintendency of the Catholic hospitals in the United States, 87 in the directorship of nurses, 291 in the office of the chief of staff, and 119 in the chaplaincy. Approximately, therefore, one fifth of our Catholic hospitals changed their superintendents, the directors of nursing, and their reverend chaplains, but approximately one half of them changed their chief of staff. In general there have been slightly fewer changes in the superintendency, considerably fewer changes in the directorship of nurses, slightly fewer in the chaplaincy, and considerably more in the position of chief of staff than in 1939. Conditions were more stable in 1940 than in 1939.

In Canada conditions are remarkably close to those existing in the United States. About one fifth of the hospitals changed their superintendents during the last year and about one fifth, the reverend chaplains. As many as one fourth of the hospitals, however, changed their director of nurses, and almost one third, their chief of staff. Conditions in 1940 seemed less stabilized than they were in 1939, since in all four positions here being considered, there were relatively more changes last year than in the previous year.

With reference to long-term planning, these facts seem to offer some suggestions. In the present state of uncertainty regarding the future, it would seem highly desirable to retain as much of the higher administrative personnel as is possible. The wisdom would seem to require that persons of competence should be kept in their respective positions to guide our institutions through this period of distress.

It is gratifying to note that the number of institutions which have secured the services of a resident chaplain is constantly on the increase both in the United States and in Canada. In 1938 there were 322 resident chaplains in our Catholic hospitals, during 1939, 362, in 1940, 384. In Canada the numbers for the same three years were 47, 53, and 66 hospitals having resident chaplains. At the present time 62.4 per cent of our Catholic hospitals in the United States and 41.0 per cent of those in Canada have a resident chaplain.

4. The Catholic Hospital in the Preparedness Program

The need for increased facilities for the preparation of the technical personnel in the hospital as part of the nation's preparedness program has been repeatedly stressed. In March, an effort was made by the office of the Catholic Hospital Association to determine the extent to which the Catholic hospitals of the country could participate in a larger educational endeavor. It was found from the returns to our inquiry sheet that the problem is not as yet fully understood by the hospitals, and hence such statistics as we are here offering must be accepted with the limitation in mind that not only are the statistics partial and hence inadequate, but that in all likelihood they must be considered as somewhat ambiguous. Nevertheless, we feel justified in presenting a brief general summary which will give some indication of the possibilities in our Catholic institutions should it become desirable or necessary to participate in an intensified educational program for the training of additional nurses and technicians.

Approximately 25 per cent of our schools of nursing have reported that the schools could without a change in their present facilities prepare an additional 1800 nurses if that number of student nurses were readily available to be added to their present enrollment. Several of these schools expressed themselves as ready to introduce new facilities so that we may well fix the number of student nurses who could be accommodated in about one fourth of our Catholic schools of nursing at 2500. Two hundred additional X-ray technicians can be educated without increasing the present facilities, while with an increase of facilities, approximately 300 could be prepared in 45 centers.

Again without increasing present facilities, the number of dietitians or students of dietetics in our hospitals can be increased by about 115, while if additional facilities were created, 100 more could be prepared.

Two hundred laboratory technologists could be prepared without changing the facilities in addition to the 207 which are now being educated in 68 centers. About one half of these centers could conveniently increase their facilities and thus enable them to prepare about 100 more in this important field.

Anesthetists, chiefly Sisters, are being prepared now in about 20 different centers. As these same hospitals are prepared to double their student enrollment and about one half of these schools are prepared to increase their present school facilities, about 175 anesthetists might be prepared. Finally, the few centers in which occupational therapists are being educated can easily double their present capacity and double it again if additional facilities could be offered, so that without serious inconvenience an additional 40 or more occupational therapists might be prepared.

These totals may not seem impressive, but if it is borne in mind that they are based upon returns from about one fourth of our Catholic institutions, the estimate may be made that in case of a real emergency, the figures which we are here offering could be doubled and certainly tripled, thus showing that the Catholic hospitals are prepared to make a sizable contribution to the existing personnel for giving medical care. It is to be regretted that our statistics for Canada are too inadequate to make even a brief summary worthwhile.

There was considerable evidence in the returns to show that the hospitals for the most part view the necessity of releasing their present personnel with considerable anxiety and misgiving. This is easily intelligible particularly in view of the recognized fact that the civilian hospital at the time of a war emergency may be called upon to carry a particularly heavy patient load. Conditions existing in our civilian hospitals during the first World War are still remembered by those who passed through months of anxiety and worry. It may be confidently said if our Catholic institutions are called upon to make sacrifices both by releasing personnel and by assuming additional obligations for the education of technicians they will rise to their opportunity. It must be borne in mind that for the most part our Catholic hospitals are maintained with practically a minimum staff. Hence to deplete staffs which are considerably overworked might endanger hospital service to a community. It might be mentioned furthermore, that at the present time the sentiment seems to be rather strongly against the use of Sisters in the military phases of a defense program. Hence it would seem that there has been a more or less recognized division of labor between Sister and lay nursing groups in at least those localities in which this particular problem has come up for discussion, the Sisters dedicating their efforts largely to the maintenance of the civilian hospitals and the lay groups undertaking responsibilities in the military program. To be sure this division of labor is not officially recognized nor is it applicable in all sections of the country. It does, however, offer a basis for national planning.

In the studies made upon this subject during the last year, it was found that in about four fifths of our Catholic hospitals 4310 Sister nurses and 9438 lay nurses were engaged in institutional nursing duties. If these figures are about correct it would seem to follow that our Sister nurses will probably have to assume an increasing responsibility for institutional nursing in case lay nurses enter upon military service in appreciable numbers. The hospitals which answered our inquiry seemed to be almost unanimous in their opinion that the present facilities are adequate to care for the normal population of their respective localities. Nevertheless, approximately one fourth of them answered this question with some restrictions. Only about two thirds of the hospitals were of the opinion that the present hospital facilities in their localities were adequate to care for an increase in the civilian population should such an increase take place on a large scale. A slightly smaller percentage asserted that the hospitals are adequate to take care of the contemplated development of military activity in their localities without an increase in present facilities.

In Canada the situation is somewhat different. A shortage of nurses is reported by only a relatively few institutions. This may be due to the fact that in Canada relatively most of the actual nursing function is assumed by the Sisters. Shortages in the resident medical staff are being reported from Canada with increasing frequency.

It was also gratifying to learn that, despite war conditions, in Canada not more than 20 per cent of the hospitals reported difficulty in securing necessary supplies and equipment, while three fourths of the hospitals reported that they have thus far found no such difficulty. It is noted by a small number of hospitals that the cost of supplies seems to have risen. A few hospitals reported a delay in the delivery of purchased supplies. A few also reported difficulties in buying for future delivery.

5. The Catholic Hospital in Defense Areas

The formation of the United Service Organization as an essential factor in national defense through its activities for social welfare in military and industrial defense areas naturally raises the problem of the place which the Catholic hospital will occupy in the present emergency. As is well known, one of the units of the United Service Organization is the recently organized National Catholic Community Service, to the program of which the Catholic Hospital Association has subscribed and in which the Catholic Hospital Association expects to be permitted to do all in the power of our Catholic hospitals for the promotion of national interests.

A few months ago the Federal Security Agency issued a report of defense communities totaling at that time 481 cities and towns and having a combined population of 42,439,798. In these 481 cities and towns, a total of 885 defense projects were under way in February, 1941. Two hundred and thirty-six of these were industrial plants, and 646 were associated with some form of military organization. In 178 of these 481 cities and towns there is at least one Catholic hospital, the total number of Catholic hospitals in them amounting to 264. These institutions contain 48,728 beds. In 24 of the towns and cities there are 36 Catholic special hospitals with a combined bed capacity of 4920.

Of the 481 cities and towns in the defense areas 162 are located in the North and Middle Atlantic states, 133 in the South and South Atlantic, 89 in the Far West, 69 in the Central West and 28 in the Central Northwest states. In these various areas 82 Catholic hospitals are located in the defense localities in the North and Middle Atlantic states, and have a combined bed capacity of 16,835. In the South and South Atlantic states there are 48 Catholic hospitals in the immediate vicinity of the defense areas, with a combined bed capacity of 7156. In the Central West there are 70 Catholic hospitals in the cities and towns of defense areas, the combined bed capacity being 13,345 beds, and in the Central Northwest and Far West there are respectively 26 and 38 Catholic hospitals with bed capacities respectively of 4770 and 6622 in close relationship to the cities and towns of the defense area.

In 37 per cent, therefore, of the cities and towns in defense areas there is at least one Catholic hospital located in the town which forms the center of the area. In all likelihood additional Catholic hospitals are situated in the neighborhood of these towns themselves. The possible magnitude of the work of the Catholic Hospital Association from a quantitative viewpoint thus seems fairly well defined. Even on the assumption that no additional facilities under Catholic auspices can be developed it would still be true that in some way our Catholic institutions can become a noteworthy factor in the activities of the United Service Organization and particularly of the National Catholic Community Service. To what extent this should become possible, only the future can tell. It should be pointed out, however, that there would seem to be many functions which the Catholic hospital can perform in these areas. Since community facilities are to be developed with reference to the needs of these areas, Catholic hospitals will undoubtedly in many places form the center of community programs for the military and civilian personnel of these various communities. The Catholic hospitals in these areas will visualize their interest as much wider and broader than simply the giving of therapeutic assistance in cases of illness.

There will be secular programs with which the Catholic hospital will be expected to cooperate. There will be various community programs for the development of health interests in which the Catholic hospital can become the significant factor. The educational projects with reference to various diseases and especially with reference to preventive medicine will also center in the local hospital. In all of these and similar undertakings, the Catholic hospital will do well to offer its assistance but what is even more important to initiate its own project, always, to be sure, in close cooperation with those who have the direction and guidance of these projects in hand.

A tabulation of military camps as of a recent date suggests that approximately 1,000,000 soldiers will be concentrated in about 173 camps. These 173 camps are located in 109 of our Catholic dioceses. In the towns and cities which form the centers of these encampments, there are approximately 100 hospitals having a total bed capacity of 17,812. Here, too, the consideration which we adduced above should be regarded as pertinent. More than half of the localities in which military camps are now located have a Catholic hospital for the most part within their immediate surroundings. Thus again the purpose which the Catholic hospital can serve in the national emergency is somewhat defined.

In all of this there is no question of increasing facilities. These statistics represent conditions as they exist today. They are susceptible of all but indefinite development, given a demonstrated need, and, moreover, the availability of such assistance as may be thought necessary for the development of so great a project.

1. The Number of Schools of Nursing

Two significant points stand out with reference to the number of Catholic schools of nursing: First, that the number of these schools has been reduced continuously over a period of five years; and secondly, that the reduction in number has not been as rapid as that among all of the schools of nursing, the result being that the percentage of the Catholic schools of nursing has been slightly rising. In 1929 there was a total of 2173 schools in the United States and at the end of 1940, 1311. In 1929 there were 429 Catholic schools of nursing against a total of 360 at the present time. As a consequence, the percentage of Catholic schools has increased from 19.7 in 1929 to 27.4 in 1940. In the general field, the reduction in the schools amounted to 40 per cent; in the Catholic group the reduction amounted to only 17 per cent.

The Number of Student Nurses:

With reference to the number of student nurses in the Catholic schools there are two outstanding facts; the first that after 1933 when a great drop in the number of students occurred coincident with a very great rise in all of the schools of nursing, the number of students in the Catholic schools has consistently risen year after year by almost 3500 students. In 1933 student nurses in our Catholic schools constituted 22 per cent of the student census in all of the schools. In 1940 they constituted 32 per cent. Since in 1933 the number of students in the Catholic schools totaled 19,541 and in 1940, 27,205; a 42 per cent increase over the total of 1933 has taken place in eight years. In 1939, the students in the Catholic schools represented 29.1 per cent of all student nurses in the United States; in 1940, they represented 32 per cent.

Briefly, therefore, the 360 Catholic schools of nursing which represent 27.4 per cent of the total schools contain 32 per cent of the student nurse body in the United States. This is obviously due to the fact that the Catholic schools as a group are larger than the the non-Catholic schools. In 1933 the average size of all the schools was 45 student nurses; that of the Catholic schools, 49.5. In 1940, the average size of all the schools was 64.8 student nurses; that of the Catholic schools, 75.6. Again in 1933 the Catholic school of nursing was larger than the average of all the schools by 4.5 student nurses. In 1940, it is larger by 10.8 student nurses. And still again during the years under discussion, the average of all the schools increased by 19.2 student nurses, while the Catholic schools of nursing increased by 26.1.

A comparison between the statistics of the last two years in Canada also shows some interesting changes. The number of schools in Canada has decreased from 180 in 1939 to 175 in 1940. The number of Catholic schools has decreased from 75 to 74 in the same period. The Catholic schools, therefore, in Canada today represent 42.3 per cent of all the schools of nursing. According to the totals privately supplied by the Canadian Nurses' Association, there were in Canada during the year 1940, a total of 11,000 nurses, an increase of slightly more than two thousand over the enrollment of the year 1939. The enrollment in the Catholic schools of nursing, however, has decreased slightly, being reduced from 4696 in 1939 to 4653 in 1940. At the present time, the percentage of the Catholic student nurses to the whole student nurse body of Canada is exactly the same, 42.3 per cent, as is the percentage of the Catholic schools to all of the schools. The average enrollment of the Catholic schools of nursing of Canada is the same as the average enrollment of all the schools; namely, 62.8 student nurses. The non-Catholic schools of nursing in Canada have shown a marked increase in enrollment, when 1939 is compared with 1940; whereas the Catholic schools have shown only a very slight increase in enrollment. The average enrollment in 1930 in all of the schools was 49.4 student nurses which rose to 62.8 in 1940. In the Catholic schools, however, the average enrollment of 1939 of 62.6 student nurses rose to 62.8 in 1940. These data are presented in Table VII.

2. The Directorship of the Catholic Schools of Nursing

Number of Changes:

Stability of policies in the direction of a school of nursing is dependent largely upon permanency of administrative personnel; hence it is important year after year to study the changes in the supervising personnel of the school, particularly of the directors of the school. In this respect, Catholic schools of nursing were particularly fortunate during the last year. Except for the year 1939 there has been a continuous reduction in the number of changes made in the directorship of the schools. In 1936 fully one fourth of the schools changed their directors, the actual number being 93 of a total of 363 schools. In 1937, only 82 changes were made (22.6 per cent) and in 1938, 76 changes were made (20.9 per cent). In the year 1939 the number of changes increased to 84 (23.3 per cent), while in 1940 the number of changes dropped to 68 (18.8 per cent).

In Canada, while in general, the number of changes and the percentage of changes is not as great as it is in the United States, still the stabilization has not as yet been secured. In 1936, 17.9 per cent of the directors of the schools were changed. In the succeeding three years, the number of changes represented 15.7 per cent, 19.5 per cent, and 18.9 per cent of all the directors. In 1940, however, the directors were changed in 18 of the 74 schools yielding a percentage of change of 24.3. In Table VIII these data are published.

Lay Directors:

Another important element in the determination and safeguarding of educational policies of the Catholic schools of nursing is the Assistant Director. At the present time, only 24 of the Catholic schools of nursing have lay directors. In 1936 there were 31.

Academic Status of Directors:

For several years the Catholic Hospital Association, through its Council on Nursing Education, has sought to stimulate increasing interest in the educational preparation of the Sister Director. The effect of this stimulation is perhaps nowhere more favorably apparent than it is in the increase in the number of Sister Directors who hold degrees. At the present time as shown in Table IX 201 of the Sister Directors have a bachelor's degree, and 34, a Master's degree; 65.5 per cent, therefore, of the directors of our schools have achieved at least the Bachelor's degree. This fact is in sharp contrast with the situation of only five years ago. In 1936, 145 Sister Directors had achieved the Bachelor's and 15 the Master's degree and only 44 per cent of the Sister Directors have had at least a collegiate education. In the succeeding years 1936 and 1940, the percentage of such Sisters increased continuously. In 1937, it was 47.8; in 1938, 51.7; and in 1939, 59.1. The gratifying changes thus revealed should be reflected in the intensification of educational endeavor in our schools. The correlatives of these facts also exhibit gratifying changes. In 1936 as many as 190 of our Sister Directors had only the R.N. Certificate as evidence of their previous education. By 1940, this number had been reduced to 112.

In Canada, similarly, a gratifying condition is revealed by this year's statistics. The number of Sister Directors having the Bachelor's degree now totals 25

3. Tuition and School Fees

Because of the great desirability of establishing a base line for the future study of educational costs in the field of nursing, the Association has been attempting for several years past to assemble data on tuition and fee payments by the students. This year it has been possible for the first time to present a somewhat complete study of this intricate problem.

Of the 360 inquiries bearing upon this point which were sent out by the Council on Nursing Education, 320 replies were received which were sufficiently complete to be useful for a statistical study. Of the 320 schools 103 or 32.2 per cent stated definitely that their students were not charged tuition or fees, or they ignored the question altogether. One hundred seventy-four schools (54 per cent) stated that they were charging their students tuition (137 schools, 42 per cent, tuition only; 37 schools, 12 per cent, tuition and fees.) Eighty schools reported charging school fees, of which forty-three schools stated that they were charging their students fees only.

Briefly, therefore, one third of the Catholic schools of nursing are charging their students neither tuition nor fees. Somewhat more than one half of the schools are charging tuition, and about 25 per cent are charging fees.

A further analysis of these figures yields some interesting points. By reason of the interest created in this problem and also by reason of its economic bearing upon the supply of nurses, it seems desirable to publish here the tabulations which have been made in the course of the study. Such a tabulation will also have a bearing upon the many questions which are being discussed in connection with the defense program. The problem returns repeatedly concerning the amount of a grant-in-aid to enable a nurse to pursue her professional education. While it is admitted that other costs are involved besides the tuition and fees charged by the schools, nevertheless these school charges represent a large and often a dominant factor in a particular situation. It is to be regretted that the tabulations must be presented for the United States only. The information concerning the Canadian schools available to the Council on Nursing Education is insufficient to permit of an extended analysis.

The Amount of Tuition and Fees

Table X summarizes the information concerning the total amount of tuition and fees charged by Catholic schools of nursing. It will be noted that the Table is arranged according to geographical areas, thus adding an additional feature of considerable importance for the convenience of those who consult the Table for practical purposes. The outstanding factor in the Table is this, that 77.1 per cent (167) of the Catholic schools of nursing charging tuition and fees charge in amounts between $26 and $150 per year. An additional 9 per cent (19 schools) charge between $151 and $200, while 6.3 per cent (14 schools) charge more than $200. The number of schools charging less than $25 per year is 7.8 per cent (17) of the schools.

Distributing the number of schools over the various geographical areas, the Table reveals the fact that 51 schools in the Central Western area charge $150 and less, while only 16 schools charge more; 44 schools in the Central Northwest area charge $150 or less and only 11 schools charge more. In the Far West 23 schools charge $150 or less, while only three schools charge more; in the Northern Atlantic states, 36 schools charge less and only three schools charge more than $150, while in the South and South Atlantic, 30 schools charge $150 or less. These facts may be definitely correlated with the cost of education in the general field in the various sections of the country.

The Amount of Tuition Charged:

It will be remembered from the preceding paragraph that 174 Catholic schools of nursing state that they are charging tuition of their students. Of this number, 13 are charging $25 or less, 49 are charging between $26 and $50 per year; 30 between $51 and $75, and 38 between $76 and $100. In other words, 130 schools are charging $100 per year tuition or less, while only 44 schools are charging more than $100 per year. In terms of percentages, this means that 75 per cent of the schools are charging $100 or less and only 25 per cent more than $100. Table XI shows the distribution of these schools by geographical areas. It will be noted that in the group of schools charging more than $100, the greatest number of schools is found in the Central Western area.

The Policy Regarding Tuition and Fees:

The policy of distinguishing between tuition and fees in fixing student charges in a school is open to considerable controversy. The viewpoints in this respect range between the opinions of those who insist upon total flat charges and those who insist upon detailed itemization of all charges. Whether or not a particular policy is a sound educational policy in any one school depends largely upon the total pattern presented by the institution.

Without entering into a discussion of the merits of the various viewpoints which have been developed among educators Table XII is presented, summarizing the self-testimony of the school concerning its own policy with regard to charging of fees. In this section of our discussion, no difference is being made between tuition and fees. It is obvious that in this Table a number of schools must be included which are really making tuition charges but these same schools have actually disclaimed a policy of charging for tuition; hence, these 80 schools, information concerning which is tabulated in this Table, are properly basing their charges upon payments for specific items in the school's program.

A review of the Table shows that 61 schools, or 76.25 per cent, charge fees of $100 or less and 19, or 24 per cent, of the schools charge fees in excess of $100. It will also be noted that those schools which charge fees in excess of $100 are located more frequently in the Central West and North West than they are in other sections of the country.

The Nature and Amount of the Fees:

A study for the justification of the fees shows that as many as 38 of the schools charge a combined entrance and matriculation fee, 21 of the schools, a matriculation fee and 17 of the schools, an entrance fee. In other words, 38 of the schools concerning which the information is here being summarized charge some form of a general admissions fee. This admissions fee is in reality not a very large one, hence, 26 of the schools charge $25 or less, while 12 of the schools charge more than $25; two schools charging between $55 and $60, and 4 other schools, between $45 and $50, two between $40 and $45, and two between $35 and $40. Ten schools charge a breakage fee which in none of these ten schools is larger than $20; 26 schools charge a special health fee, but in only three of these 26 schools is this fee larger than $10; 13 schools charge a social activity fee, but in no case does this fee exceed $15. Eleven schools charge a graduation fee, but in 9 of these the size of the fee is $15 or less. Eight schools charge a library fee of $5 or less, and a total of 11 schools listed have initiated the policy of charging such a fee. Nineteen schools have a laboratory fee, but in 14 of them the charge is $5 or less, and in the remaining 5 it does not exceed $15. A textbook fee is charged in 31 schools. The maximum charge for textbooks, however, is found in only one school where a charge between $71 and $80 was made; in the other schools the charge is $50 or less; 28 schools charge a uniform fee inclusive of a fee for capes. In only 6 of these schools, however, does it exceed $50.

Six schools report that they have a fee for the maintenance of students, and 5 of them report the charge against the student is one of $100 or less, and in only one is it $200 or more. Twelve schools report that they charge an educational fee which, no doubt, includes items for which in other schools textbook fees and library or laboratory fees are charged. In 6 of these 12 schools the educational fee is listed as being $25 or less. Finally, 25 schools report miscellaneous charges amounting in 11 of the schools to $50 or less, and in 13 of the schools to $51 or more. Tables XIII and XIV present these facts.

The situation thus revealed in these three Tables is one which shows considerable realization of the importance of student fees in the educational program of our schools of nursing. It may be confidently asserted that a very commendable change of attitude with reference to student fees is indicated by the data in these Tables.

Comment:

A few years ago considerable resentment was still detectable in Catholic schools against making any charges against the students, largely, no doubt, because many of the Sisters were convinced that the student nurse was amply remunerating the hospital by the services which she was rendering. At the present time, not only has this conviction been shaken among the Sisters but a large percentage of our Catholic schools are looking upon themselves as educational agencies, and are attempting to carry the responsibility of the educational agency.

In this respect, it may be said that the officials of our Catholic schools of nursing are approximating more and more the viewpoints of college administrators who, in these days when the importance of financial endowments is being depreciated, are inclined to insist more and more upon the payment of the school expenditures through student fees. Since the yield from endowment is becoming smaller due to the financial policies of the nation, and since benefactions to the private agencies are also being reduced in volume our institutions of higher learning are forced to fall back more and more upon student fees as a source of necessary income for the operation of the institution.

In the Catholic school of nursing there is one form of endowment, the endowment through contributed service which is not subject to the same fluctuations as financial endowment. It is true that the value of the endowment of contributed service must necessarily vary from time to time with the salary levels established by economic conditions and the extent of the employment situation, nevertheless, the intrinsic value of contributed service maintains itself at a fixed level in a particular hospital as long as the Sister personnel remains at a particular number of Sisters and as long as the ratio between the Sister personnel and the salaried lay personnel remains at approximately the same value. From one point of view, therefore, the contribution to the school of nursing through student fees is a less important factor in the Catholic schools of nursing than it is in other schools, while from another point of view it is at least a factor not less significant in the Catholic than in the non-Catholic schools. From either viewpoint in our Catholic schools of nursing student fees must continue to be regarded as a factor of controlling importance in the administration of our schools.

4. Educational Relationships

The educational relationships of the Catholic schools of nursing have been a matter of concern to the Catholic Hospital Association since 1927 when a program of promotion of these relationships between our schools of nursing and our Catholic colleges and universities was first initiated. More particularly since 1933 when the certain definitions and differentiations of these relationships were formulated has the Association been concerned with intensifying a union of the program of Catholic institutions of higher learning and the programs of our Catholic schools of nursing. At the present time as shown in Table XV, 210 of our 360 Catholic schools of nursing have entered into some form of relationship with institutions of higher learning. Almost 60 per cent (58.3 per cent) of our schools of nursing have educational programs that are influenced to a greater or less extent by collegiate ideals and policies. These relationships affect in the United States no fewer than 61.6 per cent of the student body of all of our schools. In Canada, 39 of the 74 schools have developed relationships of the kind we are here describing, affecting fully 55.5 per cent of the student bodies of all the Catholic schools.

Types of Relationships:

In accordance with the definitions of the various relationships adopted by the Catholic Hospital Association for its statistical studies, 23 of the schools of nursing are now integrated completely into universities; that is, they are integral parts of institutions of higher learning. Their curriculum, educational policy, staffs, and all other phases of administration are the direct responsibility of an educational institution. Sixty-seven schools have developed some form of institutional affiliation, ranging in its effect upon the schools from control of staff appointments by the educational institution to more or less intimate control of the entire educational activity. Sixty-two schools have developed some form of course affiliation accepting individual courses which are elements of the curriculum of the school of nursing for college credit, such exceptions being extended to more or fewer courses in different institutions, in accordance with educational policies and the recognized educational value of a particular course for the attainment of collegiate objectives. Finally, 38 schools of nursing in the United States have developed some form of accreditation; that is, they have entered into some plan by which the school of nursing is recognized as giving an acceptable part of a program leading toward a bachelor's degree. Overlapping plans are found in 15 institutions, so that if all duplications are cleared, 175 of the Catholic schools of nursing have entered into some form of relationship with a Catholic institution of learning. This number is somewhat smaller than it was in 1939, due to the fact that some plans have been found unworkable, and hence have been discontinued. The number of student nurses affected by the plans in these 175 schools is, however, larger by approximately 300 than it was in 1939, and at the present time totals 14,049 students.

In Canada, only one school of nursing has thus far succeeded in effecting an institutional integration. Fifteen have developed some form of institutional affiliation, 13, course affiliation, and 6 have secured accreditation. Thirty-five schools of nursing with a combined student enrollment of 2144 represents the present status of this movement in our Catholic Canadian schools of nursing. The relationship of the school of nursing with non-Catholic educational institutions suggests a problem of no small magnitude to which attention has been called repeatedly. In no case has such a relationship developed into institutional integration. In the United States, however, three schools have secured institutional affiliation with a non-Catholic college or university; 29 have secured course affiliation, and 15, accreditation. Again eliminating duplications, caused by overlapping plans, a total of 35 Catholic schools of nursing are now operating under some form of formal relationship with non-Catholic educational institutions. In these 35 schools of nursing, there are 2719 student nurses. It is significant that of the 27,205 student nurses in the Catholic institutions of the United States, no fewer than 16,000, or 60 per cent, are affected by these collegiate relationships, whereas in Canada of a total of approximately 4600 students, 1900, or about 57 per cent, are thus affected. The summary of these data is presented in Table XVI.

As far as possible, the arrangement and coding in all of these directories is uniform, so that the use of these directories will be facilitated.

2. The Arrangement of Hospital Directory

Again we are using a vertical arrangement for the pages. This has necessitated the use of at least two and sometimes more lines for each of the hospitals, so that significant data might be adequately presented. The hospitals are listed by state, the states being arranged in alphabetical order and within each state the names of the cities and towns are again sub-alphabetized. The hospitals in a given locality, city, or town are listed in their respective alphabetical order the same arrangements prevailing for the provinces and other political divisions of Canada.

The dioceses in which the various hospitals are located are set out to the right of the name of the city or town. The full name and address of the hospital falls in the second column. Special attention must be called to the next column in which a code number appears which refers to the full name and other information of the Sisterhood or Brotherhood conducting the institution. The lists of these Sisterhoods and Brotherhoods together with pertinent data appear in Table X. The year in which the hospital was established follows in another column and immediately to the right there appears a double column listing the number of beds and bassinets together with, in a line immediately below, a series of symbols descriptive of the institution's status, facilities, and activities. The name of the superintendent of the hospital and of the director of nurses follows in another column, the latter's name being indented in the typesetting. Finally, in the last column, we find the name of the chief of staff and of the chaplain of the institution.

3. The Hospital Directory Code

Due to the necessity of conserving space and the further necessity of making significant data easily available to the reader, compilers of directories find themselves forced to abbreviate the information which they supply to the student and the reader. The establishment of a code has been found the most usable technique, first of all, in condensing a large amount of information into a small place and secondly in making the meaning of a directory easily clear. Persons consulting this directory should give a few moments' study to the symbols, so that the directory may be found more serviceable. The reader, however, may be assured that every effort has been made by the editors to anticipate the purposes of those who consult these pages.

The code used in this directory is the following:

4. Abbreviations of Types of Hospital Service

7. The Arrangement of the School of Nursing Directory

Previously, we have described the arrangement of the hospital directory. We have also indicated that an effort is made to develop uniform arrangement for the convenience of the reader. Accordingly, it will be found that the Directory of Catholic Schools of Nursing is presented vertically. In the first column will be found the names of the state and city or town in which the school is located. The states are arranged alphabetically, similarly, the cities and towns within a state. In the second column will be found the name and address of the school. The column which follows has been reserved for a code number to designate the Sisterhood or Brotherhood conducting the school. The list of these Sisterhoods and Brotherhoods may be found in Table X and XI. The year of establishment of the school is reported in the next column, while immediately to the right the capacity of the hospital to which the school of nursing is attached is reported and on the line below opposite the address of the school, space is provided for the insertion of symbols which describe some of the facilities and activities of the school. Following this, the student enrollment is reported. In the next column the name of the director of the school is printed. Finally, space has been provided for the school's educational affiliation, there being given the name and address of the university or college with which the school of nursing is affiliated, and in a special column the year in which the affiliation was effected.

8. The School of Nursing Directory Code

As in previous years, the editors have followed the technique of devising a code or series of symbols to indicate the status of the school, to provide information concerning the school's facilities, and to designate, too, some of the activities of the school. Except for a few items for which special notes appear below, the code is the same for Canada and the United States schools. These symbols are as follows:

Responsible Sources of Supply in Hospital Construction, Equipment, Operation, and Maintenance

The editorial pages of HOSPITAL PROGRESS offer a highly developed and most appreciated service in advancing the professional interests of Catholic hospitals. In like manner, the advertising pages of HOSPITAL PROGRESS offer a most valuable service to the administrators of Catholic hospitals, providing authoritative information concerning equipment and supplies so necessary in the efficient operation and maintenance of these institutions.

From the professional viewpoint, improved hospital service is due to the various national agencies giving their attention to the general as well as particular phases of hospital service. In order to make effective many of these advances, the interested and intelligent cooperation of commercial organizations is most essential in the development of new and improved equipment and supplies.

In this movement, HOSPITAL PROGRESS and the Catholic Hospital Association have a most important part by way of disseminating knowledge concerning improved standards of hospital service, of advanced education of personnel, of standard administrators and care of patients, and as a reliable source of information for administrators of Catholic hospitals concerning the physical requirements for the efficient care of the sick.

The twofold service, through the editorial and advertising pages of HOSPITAL PROGRESS, is a dynamic factor in co-ordinating the interests of the Catholic hospitals and of responsible concerns supplying the physical requirements for hospital operation and maintenance.

Quality Requirements. Quality is a relative term as applied to materials, equipment, and supplies. The standard of quality can only be measured in terms of essential requirements for the particular use or service of the product.

Hospital use of medical and surgical equipment and supplies requires one standard of quality, namely, the very best. While this also applies to most of the other equipment and supplies, there is some variation above a minimum standard of quality, and based on the particular use of the product.

That quality of product which best serves the particular need and requirement of hospitals, and at a reasonable price, will best meet the hospital requirements.

Qualified Service. Specialized service and continuity of service in terms of medical and hospital personnel, equipment and supplies, is the keynote of efficient hospitalization.

In the planning and construction of a new hospital, or in any program of modernization, as well as in the purchase of equipment and supplies, the employment of a specialist, or dealing with a specialist in a particular field, is a most important step in securing efficiency in hospital operation and maintenance.

The equipping of hospitals, either in the original installation or for the annual operation and maintenance, is accomplished best by responsible establishments specializing, so to speak, in supplying products of that quality which best meets all the hospital requirements.

Responsible establishments, giving special attention to the Catholic hospital needs and by reason of their special training and experience, have an understanding of the quality requirements in furnishing the materials, equipment, and supplies for every department of hospital activity.

The Buying Directory. The publication of advertising in this Directory Number and in the regular issues of HOSPITAL PROGRESS carries with it an assurance of satisfactory service and any experience to the contrary should be promptly brought to the attention of the publishers or the Catholic Hospital Association. In demonstrating the right to leadership in their respective fields, the firms listed in this Directory merit careful consideration when buying equipment and supplies.

We, therefore, direct the attention of the Catholic hospitals to the established hospital trade as represented in the pages of the Buying Directory in this special issue, as well as in the regular issues of HOSPITAL PROGRESS. These concerns, through their advertising in HOSPITAL PROGRESS, express their ability and interest in serving the Catholic hospitals, and merit your favorable consideration when purchasing equipment and supplies.

The advertising of manufacturers and dealers on the following pages of this Directory, as well as in the monthly issues of HOSPITAL PROGRESS, will serve as a convenient source of supply covering your hospital requirements. Your request to these advertisers will bring immediate response, and these firms are especially recommended for your favorable consideration in purchasing your needed requirements.

The advertising index, beginning on page 58A, lists the advertisers alphabetically, including a condensed statement covering the key products and services they offer. "CONQUEROR LINE" SCORES AGAIN with EMERGENCY ROOM EQUIPMENT MADE ENTIRELY of Stainless Steel!

ACCIDENT ROOM
Lenox Hill Hospital
NEW YORK

• The "CONQUEROR LINE" Stainless Steel Equipment in this important department of the Hospital is always in perfect condition and ready for service at any time. Note the well-planned, space-saving arrangement and how each unit is placed to serve in perfect co-ordination with others. Against the far wall is the Kendall Model Wall Utensil Stand with its large storage cabinet and the Rogers Model Instrument and Supply Cabinet, one of the most popular models in general use, combining instrument, storage and supply sections in one integral unit. Between the two cabinets is the Eldridge Model Single Drum Stand with the Wallace Model Dressing Drum. On the left is the Darby Model Sterilizer Table, the Ferguson Model Utility Table with bottle rack, and the Beacon Model Examining Chair. In the lower right corner is the Randolph Model Reclining Couch. In the center, the Otis Model Examining Table with paper roll and adjustable head section, and the Clifton Model Surgeon's Stool.

• THE HAZARDS of contemporary life make the Emergency Room one of the most important in any institution. No hospital worth its salt can afford to minimize the poignant human equation evidenced in the daily activity of this department. Chance may create the accident but it has no place in the tools and the services of any modern institution dedicated to the alleviation of human suffering. Thus, when "CONQUEROR LINE" builds for the Accident Room, equipment made entirely of Stainless Steel, it places at the disposal of medical science safeguards which have been tested and approved. Superlatively constructed and designed, ever bright and shining, easy to clean, easy to use, sanitary, aseptic, practically everlasting — "CONQUEROR LINE" again serves the function which has made it the equipment for the modern hospital.

CONSULT US: Let our technical experts show you what can be done to transform YOUR Emergency Room into an efficient, modern unit. Whether it is a single item of equipment or a complete installation, our services are at your disposal. Room layouts, specifications and prices furnished at no obligation whatsoever. Send for our catalogs illustrating and describing complete "CONQUEROR LINE" of Hospital Equipment.

DEDICATED TO THE PHYSICIANS, NURSES AND HOSPITALS OF AMERICA

SAVED: 75,000 BABIES

In this country, over 75,000 babies will live this year—who would have died 20 years ago.

This has been accomplished chiefly by a war on germs.

Against this ever-present danger, hospitals take truly extraordinary measures.

For instance, in modern hospitals, no one is admitted to the nursery except specially assigned nurses. Not even doctors are allowed inside. Every article that touches the baby's skin is sterilized.

And in most hospitals the baby is given a complete anointing at least once a day with antiseptic oil to help protect the skin against germs.

Mother, when you return home from the hospital with a baby of your own—remember that the precautions observed in hospitals have saved countless baby lives. So continue those precautions at home.

In most hospitals, babies are anointed with Mennen Antiseptic Oil, every day, from top to toe—to help keep their skins healthier and safer from germs. Continue this daily oiling at home—right thru the first year. And use the oil at every diaper change, too, to help prevent diaper rash and excoriated buttocks.

Baby powder, like baby oil, should also be antiseptic. So, mother, when you choose a baby powder, choose Mennen Antiseptic Powder. Made by a new process — hammerized — it is "smooth as air." And, most important, it is antiseptic.

COLOR and CLEANLINESS

for Hospital Walls and Dining Room Equipment

Formica combines a smooth, hard, chemically inert surface that is easily cleaned with a wide range of attractive colors. It has a place in the modern hospital where color is appreciated in thoroughly sanitary material.

Walls may be covered with plywood panels covered with Formica veneers, or with Formica wall board where there is no objection to metal moldings over the joints.

For dining room table tops it combines color with great durability, resistance to spotting by ordinary liquids, or by lighted cigarettes.

MODERNIZATION

—THE KEYNOTE TO KEEPING YOUR X-RAY DEPARTMENT ABREAST OF TODAY'S INCREASING REQUIREMENTS AND STANDARDS

EVERY hospital administrator, every member of the Medical Staff, wants to justify the patient's confidence in the institution's ability to render a service commensurate with today's adopted standards of medical practice.

And because this responsibility to the patient is shared departmentally, the hospital's administrators must ever be alert lest any department lose ground, through inability to render the quality of service to which the patient is entitled in light of medical progress.

The hospital's x-ray department, you'll agree, ranks second to none in its vitally important service to the patient. The better the quality of work produced by this department, the greater the accuracy in making the diagnosis and in prescribing the treatment. Can there be any just compromise here?

There are certain types of x-ray work now being done routinely which a few years ago were considered only a remote possibility. And because these techniques have an important bearing on diagnosis and treatment, more and more progressive hospitals are availing themselves of the latest developments in x-ray apparatus with which to produce these better end results.

Your x-ray equipment was probably "the last word" at the time of its installation, but unless you have had recent occasion to compare its range of service with that of more modern equipment, very likely you are overlooking some important advantages which you would not want your hospital to forego.

May we suggest: A careful survey of your present x-ray facilities by one of our trained field representatives, that he might offer practical suggestions toward modernization in view of increasing the effectiveness of your x-ray service according to present-day standards of hospital practice.

Hundreds of institutions will attest to the tangible value of this advisory service, because it has helped them to modernize their x-ray facilities for maximum efficiency on a most economical basis—with utilization of existing equipment to the utmost practical extent.

This we can do for you, too. Just say the word, that we may demonstrate how this phase of G-E field service functions to bring about highly gratifying results.

ROLAND OF PARMA (c. 1240), disciple of the great Roger, attained prominence as a surgeon in his own right and a lasting reputation through compilation of the Rolandina, published in several forms during the Middle Ages. The first section of this work, dealing with injuries to the head, reflects the type of weapon and warfare of the period. The three subsequent sections cover injuries to other parts of the body, the suturing of wounds, the arrest of hemorrhage, and treatment of burns and tetanus.

DAVIS & GECK INC.

"THIS ONE THING WE DO"

DAVIS & GECK, INC., founded in 1909 with the slogan "This One Thing We Do," specializes exclusively in the preparation of surgical sutures

• In the study of suture behavior and in the creation of new products and methods to meet advances in surgery, the aid of surgeons, bacteriologists and chemists of the first rank is enlisted and no effort is spared to raise suture standards by exhaustive specialized research. Every scientific development is investigated and those of practical value are utilized.

• Outstanding among D&G contributions to suture improvement are the Claustro-thermal method of heat sterilization; the development of xylol as a tubing fluid in place of irritative chloroform; the introduction of the double iodide, Kalmerid, in place of unstable and destructive iodine; the perfection of methods for the reduction and complete neutralization of chromium salts; the unification of suture sizes; and the development of digestive absorption tests to supplement in vivo controls.

• As a result of specialization for over three decades, D&G offers materials and suture-needle combinations in a range so comprehensive that the surgeon is enabled to select a suture of known standard and predictable behavior for any situation.

THE ELECTRON MICROSCOPE

FIFTY TIMES more powerful than the strongest optical microscope and providing useful magnification up to 100,000 diameters, the recently perfected electron microscope has greatly extended the horizon of scientific observation.

Acquisition of the first of these new instruments conforms with the DAVIS & GECK policy of providing its research staff with every possible facility.

The potentialities of an instrument which carries vision into the realm of molecules seem limitless. The electron microscope, therefore, constitutes a most important supplement to research equipment already rated among the most complete in this country.

Cut Your Rubber Bills in Half

by adopting

The "Big 3" in Hospital Rubber Goods

"Meinecke's Best" Maroon Sheeting

"Meinecke's Best" Hot Water Bag

"Meinecke's Best" Ice Bag

Without Question the Most Serviceable Rubber Goods Ever Made

Standardize on the "Big 3"

You will save time, money, and annoyance by standardizing on the "Big 3". Over one thousand hospitals in the United States have solved their sheeting problems by adopting and regularly specifying "Meinecke's Best" Maroon Sheeting, and after forty years, despite innumerable "just as good" sheetings and substitutes, the original "Meinecke's Best" is still the most economical mattress protection you can buy.

Buy Mattress Protection—Not Just Rubber Sheeting

So remarkable has been the success of "Meinecke's Best" Maroon Sheeting that we use this same material for our "Meinecke's Best" Hot Water Bag and Ice Bag. Both of these bags are hand-made, and being cloth-inserted are safer for use in ether beds than molded or all-rubber bags. The Ice Bags are made with brass collars and fitted with unlosable washers.

Time Guarantees Mean Little—Our Guarantee is Your Entire Satisfaction —You To Be The Sole Judge

A guarantee is only as good as the house back of it, and extravagant guarantees mean nothing. We guarantee the "Big 3" to give you entire satisfaction—you to be the sole judge. Many of our customers have had these goods in actual use for over ten years and some as long as fifteen years.

Two Remarkable Instances of Mattress Protection—Read What Others Say of Meinecke's Best Maroon Rubber Sheeting

Twenty-seven Years' Service

Under date of July 17th, 1939 Sister M. Gervase, R.S.M., Superintendent of Mercy Hospital, Hamilton, Ohio, wrote:

"This rubber sheet has been in continuous use in the Emergency Department of Mercy Hospital for the past twenty-seven years."

Twenty Years' Service

"Today I forwarded you the remarkable piece of sheeting that has been in daily use here ever since 1918. Such endurance surely merits praise."

Not only is the "Meinecke's Best" Maroon Sheeting the best mattress protection you can buy, but it is also guaranteed against all the ordinary usages of oil in regular hospital work, provided normal care is used.

Hillyard's HOSPITAL SOAP . . .

CLEANS THOROUGHLY AND ACTS AS AN ANTISEPTIC

The importance of sanitation in surgery has created a need for soaps that thoroughly loosen dirt, grime, germs, bacteria and all foreign matter from the skin and pores, and still leave the skin soft and comfortable with no irritation.

Hillyard's Hospital Soap has for nearly a third of a century performed the all-important job of surgical wash-up with safe, dependable efficiency. Its rich, lubricating, creamy lather cleanses quickly and carefully, leaving the skin soft, fresh and invigorated with no after irritation or burning.

Being of extremely heavy body, Hillyard's Hospital Soap should be diluted many times with distilled water according to the lather demanded by surgeons.

VELVA-BABE

Improved
HOSPITAL SOAP DISPENSERS

Each dispenser is all of metal — no rubber tubes to get out of order. The soap supply is carried in glass containers, which are easy to refill and can be interchanged. All models triple chromium plated which makes them always bright and attractive.

ABOVE is a list of hospitals whose window cleaning costs are surprisingly low. Some of these hospitals have thousands of windows to be kept clean — others have only a few.

But in any event they are saving from 30 to 50% time in window cleaning and are using less expensive help than would be necessary if the widow cleaning had to be done from the outside instead of from the inside as they now do it.

And with Williams Equipment there is no danger of a costly accident and no discomfort to a patient.

Also for the patients' comfort the sash can be deflected for ideal ventilation and a non-rattling window is assured. The product has stood the test of time for 36 years.

The Modern, Improved CONNECTACALL System

● By providing two-way communication between patient and nurse, the new CONNECTACALL System improves the hospital's nursing service and patient-care in many ways. The patient's needs are known sooner, taken care of faster — with fewer steps, less wasted time. The nurse is relieved from the many time-wasting calls which can be handled by aides. On night duty, she may listen-in on patients who need watching, as often as desired and, without leaving her station, locate trouble immediately.

The CONNECTACALL System is scientifically designed to meet every hospital requirement. It is thoroughly dependable . . . guaranteed to render completely satisfactory service. Its design permits installation in existing hospitals as well as new buildings. Write for Bulletin C-10, containing complete description of the System, details and illustrations of the equipment.

CONDUX

This trade mark and a red and black marbleized pattern identifies the genuine and only electrically conductive caster wheel of its kind

CONDUX — the Safe Caster

A Revolutionary New Caster Development for Hospitals

Ever alert to meet conditions and improve mobile equipment in the Hospital field—Faultless is happy to announce CONDUX electrically conductive casters. This new non-static caster by Faultless promises increased safety in hospital operating rooms without sacrificing any of the other desirable properties of rubber composition wheels, such as quietness, long life, etc. Other physical properties such as abrasion resistance, tensile strength and aging are not altered.

Now, CONDUX wheels, available only in Faultless Hospital Casters, provide a safe conductor with a resistance running as low as 100 ohms per centimeter cube compared with specific resistance of ordinary rubber of around one hundred million ohms per centimeter cube.

GROUNDS THE STATIC CHARGE — MINIMIZES THE EXPLOSION HAZARD

Static electricity is known to be responsible for the majority of explosions that occur in operating rooms. It is induced in many ways—and can be developed on patient, attendants, cart, gas machine, floors, etc. Objects or persons, if at different potentials, may cause a spark when they come in contact with each other under certain conditions. If this spark occurs during administration of certain highly explosive anaesthetics, an explosion may result.

The non-conductors in the room produce static electricity, the charge is built up by friction and, because the object is a non-conductor, it will not ground itself and sparks to another person or object which is at another potential.

Fortunately, it is now possible to ground static charges by means of Faultless Condux Casters on operating tables, stretcher carts, instrument stands, etc., and with Faultless Condux Crutch Tips on anaesthetist stools or other stationary equipment. In developing these new non-static hospital items, FAULTLESS is performing in traditional manner—always first with the latest . . . always endeavoring to provide better equipment for specific uses.

BA Series Caster with Condux Wheel, brake and "Full-Grip" rubber expansion socket. Simple construction—no cones, springs or ferrules—nothing to get out of order. Easy to apply or remove.

For descriptive details, dimensions and sizes see our LF Catalog. BE SURE TO SPECIFY CONDUX WHEELS WHEN ORDERING as only CONDUX wheels are electrically conductive.

BS SERIES

CONDUX CRUTCH TIP

CONDUX SAFEGUARDS For YOUR OPERATING ROOMS

The cost of protection is small—the results of one explosion far-reaching and costly. Static sparks may be produced in many ways:

- HAZARD: Covering with a wool blanket; uncovering, movement of stretcher cart to operating room.

  SAFEGUARD: Use cotton blankets, Faultless Casters with CONDUX wheels, "Non-Static" rubber sheeting, "Non-Static" flooring in operating room.
- HAZARD: Action of gas machine and its parts in administering anaesthetic.

  SAFEGUARD: Ground all parts. Use Faultless CONDUX Casters, "Non-Static" rubber connections, hoses, gas bags.
- HAZARD: Movement of patients on operating table.

  SAFEGUARD: Use Faultless CONDUX Casters, "Non-Static" rubber sheets.

CAMBRIDGE

CARDIAC DIAGNOSTIC INSTRUMENTS

PROVIDE THE MODERN HOSPITAL WITH UNIVERSALLY ACCEPTED RECORDS
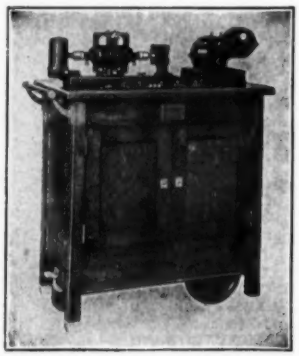
FUNDAMENTAL ACCURACY
DAY-BY-DAY DEPENDABILITY
ALL-ELECTRIC OPERATION



The Cambridge Mobile Model Electrocardiograph (illustrated) completely answers the demands of the busy Hospital. It can be readily moved to the wards when desired, and it meets the most exacting needs of the Cardiologist . . . like all Cambridge Electrocardiographs it records the minute heart currents directly with the string galvanometer — without external amplification. The Cambridge Electrocardiograph is a primary standard and accordingly requires no periodic check with an external standard to confirm its accuracy.

Also widely used in Hospitals is the Electrocardiograph-Stethograph Model — a single compact instrument which records the electrocardiogram and heart sounds separately, or simultaneously on one record. All Cambridge Electrocardiographs may be had for straight Electrocardiography or with heart sound recording.

For the small Hospital or Clinic . . . two compact, light weight Portable models are available. They incorporate the same fundamental accuracy, ruggedness and dependability that have always characterized Cambridge-built instruments.

THE "CAMBRIDGE" IS A LIFETIME PURCHASE.

Edith Cavell by Helen Judson

This is the first full biography of the great English pioneer nurse whose summary trial and execution in Belgium in 1915 brought world attention to her remarkable work as a nurse in Belgium both before and during the war. Miss Judson draws upon many previously untapped and intimate sources for her story of this indomitable, half-Puritan figure. Belgium in 1915, as seen by Edith Cavell, bears many resemblances to Belgium today.

April. Probably $2.50

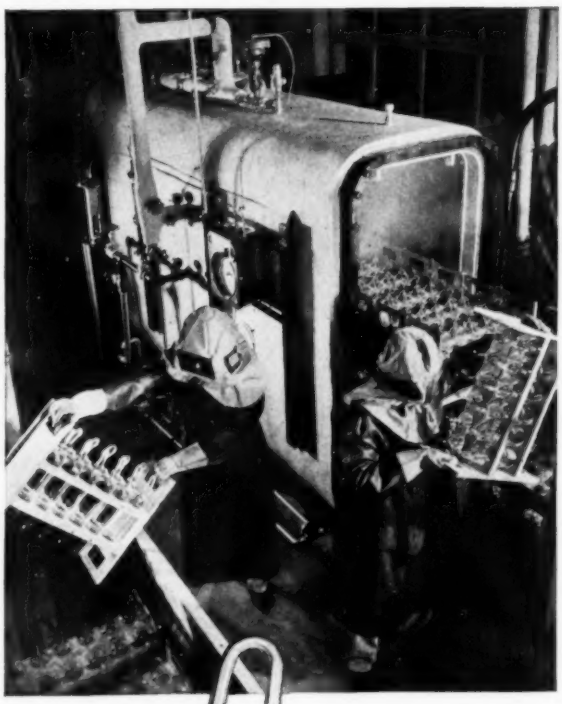
HOT from the AUTOCLAVE



THE recording drum of the autoclave writes 240 degrees Fahrenheit. From this consuming heat, the Sterisol Ampoule emerges, and as if to test its mettle, is promptly immersed in cold water to prevent the caramelizing influence of continued heat.

Only resistant Pyrex glass can withstand this grueling treatment. Even so, possible explosion of the hot ampoule on its impact with cold water must be guarded against by protective clothing and headgear.

This is but one step in the process of producing sterile intravenous solutions of dextrose and of sodium chloride that offer three distinct and important advantages.

SIMPLICITY

Each Sterisol Ampoule is a self-contained infusion apparatus. Slip on the rubber tubing with needle and it is ready in an instant. No other parts to attach.

SAFETY

Sealed hermetically by fusion, in a heat resistant Pyrex glass ampoule, there is no possibility of contamination by the seal working loose; the solution is protected from deterioration and exposure.

ACCURACY

Biologically, bacteriologically and chemically tested solutions, prepared under exacting laboratory technic, with the aid of modern equipment.

The use of Sterisol solutions in your hospital is more economical than you imagine. Let us prove it to you. Ask for literature. The efficiency of your hospital urges the use of Sterisol. Your staff will welcome it.

7 FLUSH VALVE FACTS

1. More Sloan Flush Valves are sold than all other makes combined. Only continued superiority could maintain such an overwhelming preference.

2. Sloan Valves 25 years old are in daily service in a crowded school. Hundreds of installations 15 to 20 years old are giving continuing, trouble-free service. Sloan Flush Valves are an investment in enduring satisfaction.

3. A nation-wide survey disclosed that the upkeep for Sloan Flush Valves varies between ½c and 1½c per valve per year. Check this against any similar mechanical device with which you are familiar.

4. A New Jersey newspaper ran a half column about how Sloan Flush Valves had saved $1000 in water bills in one year at the local high school. Erratic flushing and tricky adjustments waste water. Sloan Valves stay in adjustment and save water.

5. Only Sloan Flush Valves have a vacuum breaker approved by the National Plumbing Laboratory as an integral part of the valve. Sloan Valves protect health.

6. The Sloan line is complete for every plumbing requirement, with valves for salt or fresh water and operating means suitable to any installation —handle, push button, toilet seat cover, foot pedal or floor button.

7. Sloan Flush Valves cost no more than others. There is no premium in price for premium quality.

$ SLOAN OWNERS SAVE MONEY

Authenticated records of water saving and maintenance have demonstrated time and time again that a Sloan installation is a dividend paying investment. Nor is there any need to accept unsupported statements. In your locality the chances are overwhelming that the majority of installations are SLOAN. Why not ask your local engineers or maintenance men what their experience has been? And remember, insistence on the name SLOAN costs you nothing extra, but brings the assurance of unequalled satisfaction. Call in our local representative or write us direct for detailed information.

Fritz's

AUTOMATIC DRAINAGE AND ASPIRATING APPARATUS

FRITZ'S Automatic Drainage and Aspirating Apparatus is the newest development in continuous surgical drainage. It is positive in action, safe, silent and portable. It creates both positive and negative pressure. A special feature is that an irrigation bottle is attached to the apparatus as a standard part of the equipment.

This new apparatus is advocated for Removal of Intestinal Obstruction—Preoperatively and Post-operatively—Relief of Post-operative Distention and Vomiting—Gastric Lavage—Irrigation of Empyema Cavities — also an Important Adjunct in Treatment of Duodenal and Intestinal Fistulas and Suprapubic Drainage of Bladder. The only thing necessary to keep the apparatus in continuous operation is to reverse the frame holding the bottles one half turn when top bottle is empty.

The standard Levin or other type catheters or duodenal tubes may be used with the Fritz's Automatic Drainage and Aspirating Apparatus.

Salvus

CATGUT SUTURES AND NYLON SUTURES

SALVUS CATGUT SUTURES comply with all U.S.P. Requirements as to size and Tensile Strength.

SALVUS DERMAX is a non-absorbable suture material processed from Nylon, black in color, and recommended for skin closure and tension suture uses. Being extruded from an orifice of predetermined size, Dermax sutures are definitely uniform in gauging, are non-capillary, causing less trauma than silk, dermal, linen, horse-hair or other skin suture materials; are processed from one solid, smooth strand, have no interstices or openings to permit the wound to granulate into so that upon removal there is little, if any, tearing of the tissues.

SALVUS BRAIDED NYLON sutures, are processed from a number of strands of Dermax Nylon, dark green in color, braided together to form a smooth, pliable and strong non-absorbable suture for those surgeons accustomed to using linen, braided or twisted silk. This material will be found to have the same desired flexibility and security of knots as other non-absorbable suture materials, plus the added advantage that Nylon has shown to produce less tissue reaction. Repeated boiling or autoclaving of unused portions will not impair the tensile strength.

Salvus Sutures have proven their superior qualities by actual use in many of the leading public and private hospitals. They represent the highest peak of advancement yet obtained in suture production to keep pace with progressive surgical practice.

Literature and samples will be furnished on request. Let us know the kind and size.

HOW ABOUT MAKING YOUR PHARMACY ATTRACTIVE AND ALSO HIGHLY EFFICIENT?

These results can be obtained at very reasonable expense. Your medicines would be kept in A1 condition, and any drug or preparation prescribed located without delay, even in the absence of the Pharmacist. If your present pharmacy shelving is overcrowded, this condition can be overcome by installing just a few Schwartz cabinets like the two which can be seen in the corner of the picture, as the holding capacity of these cabinets is tremendous.

If you will send us a rough floor plan of your pharmacy we would be pleased to prepare a blue-print plan, and furnish an estimate of the cost. This would be done without any obligation for you to place an order.

Send for Booklet "C", containing full information, pictures of Standard wall units and various types of prescription cases, along with their outside dimensions, as well as the net price list.
